Introduction

Purpose of the guidelines

At the first glance, communication of the project might seem complicated due to many technical requirements, while things will be easier to understand, if we keep in mind that all those requirements arise from two main principles that are applied to all projects without any exceptions:

- 1) All projects must make their outputs freely available to general public.
- 2) Support from the European Funds to the project must be acknowledged by carrying identity of European Union (EU) and Interreg V-A Latvia–Lithuania Cross Border Cooperation Programme 2014–2020 (Programme).

It is a duty of projects to ensure meeting of the first principle. These Communication guidelines of the Programme aim to help you – projects Lead partners (LP) and partners (PP) – in meeting the second rule, and explain how the requirements for project external communication set in the EC Regulation No 1303/2013¹ and in the Programme Manual (PM) should be applied in practice. So that you would have more time to focus on the content of communication, and namely – promotion of your project ideas and achievements.

How to use guidelines

The guidelines are structured in a way, so that the persons responsible for the project communication could use it as a hand-book.

- 1) 1st Part explains what should be considered when forming entire external communication of the project, and what are the main publicity requirements to the projects. This section should be read when starting the project, and the general requirements described there should be kept in mind.
- 2) 2nd Part lists the main requirements of the Programme for specific communication activities/measures. It is in a form of check-list, which can be used when implementing some communication measures.
- 3) Annexes provide resources that can be directly applied in the project communication (short dictionary, ready-to-use phrases) and more detailed guidelines on the use of the Programme logo and style, icons and colours of thematic priorities of the Programme, management of project section on the Programme website.

¹ Regulation (EU) No 1303/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 December 2013 laying down common provisions on the European Regional Development Fund, the European Social Fund, the Cohesion Fund, the European Agricultural Fund for Rural Development and the European Maritime and Fisheries Fund and laying down general provisions on the European Regional Development Fund, the European Social Fund, the Cohesion Fund and the European Maritime and Fisheries Fund and repealing Council Regulation (EC) No 1083/2006

1. Project communication

1.1 Things to remember

When developing project materials, organising events, communicating with target public and media keep in mind these things:

- 1) Demonstrate project aims and achievements, what changes of the current situation will be brought by the project.
- 2) Highlight what are the cross-border benefits of those achievements. You must do that, because the funding comes from cross-border cooperation Programme.
- 3) Acknowledge EU funding.

There are also several practical things about project communication that should not be forgotten not only by the person responsible for the project communication, but also by each member of the project team. Make sure, that all project partners are aware of them:

- Use the Programme logo and acknowledge EU support during all of your activities and on all products of the project.
- Make photos and/or videos of your activities. You will use them for communication and reporting.
- Keep evidences of each of information materials or items (souvenirs, publications, etc.) produced or purchased. They will have to be added to the reports. Samples must be kept by the LP and PPs for control and audit purposes.
- Enter information about the upcoming public events of the project in the calendar on the Programme website, send the information about other upcoming events (e. g., working meetings) to the assigned JS staff member not later than two weeks prior to the event.
- Always check if your activities meet the project communication requirements. Consult JS if in doubt.

1.2 Project communication message

The communication of the project would be smoother and easier if since the beginning of the project you would develop 3–5 main messages stating what are the main objectives and expected results of the project, so that whenever you have been asked about the project you would be able to explain what you are doing and why. These messages are not slogans or advertising texts. Later, around these messages project communication can be built. These messages might be changed during the course of the project. Several hints for making your messages:

- Define target public. Most of your target audiences were already identified in your project application – these are your main stakeholders. General public is not a target audience – if you target everyone you end up speaking to no one.
- Reflect upon what do you want to say with your message. Think of not only to whom you are going to tell about your project, but also why do you want to tell: To communicate success of the project? To involve into project activities? To get them aware about new products and services developed by the project and encourage use of them? To share your experiences?

- Use plain language. The messages should be clear and in plain language. Try to imagine, that you are explaining your project to your family members – your children or parents. Do not use complicated terms and project jargon, and at the same time do not use patronising tone.

1.3 Visual identity of the Programme

One of the main aims of the project communication set-up is to create a common style that would allow clearly to identify the EU support to the project. This is needed for:

- increasing the public awareness of the EU funding,
- ensuring transparency of the EU funding.

! In case you have doubts if your publicity measures meet the Programme requirements – contact JS.

Publicity requirements

The main principles of the publicity requirements applied to the projects are:

- Acknowledging EU support by clearly and visibly displaying logo of the Programme.
- Providing main information about the project. How exhaustive it is will depend on the type of your publication or activity, space or time available, or technical possibilities.
- Providing information on the financial support from European Regional Development Fund (ERDF).
- Using a disclaimer that the EU is not responsible for the provided information if it contains opinion.

For more specific requirements based on the type of the communication activities/measures please see Part II of the guidelines.

Use of Programme logo and colours

It is mandatory for each project to acknowledge Programme's support by using the Programme logo on all materials, products, tools (including electronic), documents, relating to the implementation of a project which is used for the public or for participants produced by the project and if possible – when implementing project activities. To meet EU publicity requirements, the Programme has logo which already contains mandatory communication elements – EU emblem (EU flag) and label “European Union”, and reference to the ERDF. The logo must always be clearly visible and placed in a prominent position.

! It is possible, that other logos are used in addition to the Programme logo. In such cases the following requirements must be respected:

- 1) The EU emblem (EU flag), which is a part of the Programme logo, shall have at least the same size, measured in height or width, as the biggest of other logos of organisations. If other logos of organisations are bigger than specified, an additional EU emblem (EU flag) should be added, with a size respecting the specifications laid in the Article 4, paragraph 5 of the Commission implementing regulation (EU) No 821/2014².

- 2) At no case other logos used in addition to the Programme logo, shall be larger, measured in height or width, than the logo of the Programme.

It is also recommended that the project would use relevant colour of the Programme priority it belongs to into the project's visual identity.

Annex 3 encloses guidelines on the use of the Programme logo and style, and recommendations of use of icons and colours of priorities of the Programme.

1.4 Mandatory communication measures

The list of the measures/activities provided in the Part II is not complete and should not limit projects when choosing communication measures or channels, nor all of the listed measures should be implemented by the project – the communication should be organized considering the needs of each project.

! Nevertheless, minimal mandatory and recommended communication measures that should be implemented by each project are defined in PM:

1. Informative posters at premises of each project partner.
2. Information about the project on websites of each of project partners.
3. Regular update of information in special section of the Programme website.
4. At least two press releases during the project implementation.
5. Marking of equipment.
6. Marking of infrastructure objects.

Each of the indicated minimal communication measures is described in the Part II of the Guidelines. The table 1 below gives an overview of the minimal mandatory communication measures and their implementation timeline.

! Although it is not considered as a separate communication activity, please do not forget, that any document (including electronic), relating to the implementation of a project which is used for the public, attendance or other certificates, should carry Programme logo acknowledging support from the European Regional Development Fund to the project.

² Commission Implementing Regulation (EU) No 821/2014 of 28 July 2014 laying down rules for the application of Regulation (EU) No 1303/2013 of the European Parliament and of the Council as regards detailed arrangements for the transfer and management of programme contributions, the reporting on financial instruments, technical characteristics of information and communication measures for operations and the system to record and store data.

The plaque must be clearly visible and placed in a prominent position. It cannot be removed for at least five years after the final payment to the project has been made.

2.10 Other promotional materials

eMS category "PROMOTIONAL MATERIALS"

Promotional materials should be limited to mainly office and event materials. The promotional materials should be clearly linked to awareness-raising of the project overall objective.

If you have doubts on what requirements are applicable do not hesitate to contact JS.

- ! Only gifts related to promotion, communication, publicity or information are eligible expenditures. Requirements of the PM section 9.2 Eligibility of costs must be respected and threshold of 50 EUR per gift must not be exceeded.

- ! Please also note the exception on the use of the minimised version of the programme logo for the promotional materials (Annex 3). In some well justified cases, when due to the technical limitations (for example engraving, embroidery) it is not possible to use full size version of the programme logo the minimised version of the logo can be applied in size bigger that 60 mm. In such case full size logo should be placed on package if the item has one. Nevertheless, on each of such cases we advise project to contact JS prior production.
